

COMMUNICATION

My employment has significantly helped me develop my communication skills. Interacting with colleagues & customers daily has enhanced my ability to articulate ideas clearly & listen effectively.

LEADERSHIP

My time at university and my role as a supervisor have greatly aided my leadership skills. University has empowered me to take ownership of my academics. Whilst working as a supervisor I've further enhanced these skills, managing daily operations, providing guidance & resolving issues.

TIME MANAGEMENT

Managing the demands of university & employment has greatly enhanced my time management abilities. Balancing coursework, deadlines & exams alongside work responsibilities has required me to prioritise tasks, plan my schedule and stay organised.

CREATIVITY

My university modules have given me assignments in various formats, including essays, posters and presentations, allowing me to develop my creative side academically. Helping students in film courses has further allowed me to pursue my hobby and express my thoughts through the arts of acting and music.

PERSONAL SKILLS DEVELOPMENT

ADAPTABILITY

My ability to adapt has greatly improved as a result of university, which has continuously challenged me to adapt to new environments, assignments & perspectives.

MOTIVATION

Co-ordinating classes, meeting deadlines, and pursuing long-term academic goals have taught me how to stay self-driven and focused during my time at university. Similarly, in my job, meeting professional expectations and contributing to team success has further reinforced my ability to remain motivated.

ANALYSIS

My analytical abilities have been enhanced greatly through my time at university by providing opportunities to engage with complex problems and diverse perspectives.

INTERPERSONAL SKILLS

University has greatly enhanced my interpersonal skills by providing numerous opportunities to engage with a diverse range of people in both academic & social settings, including group work & class discussions.
